Theme Performance-based Seismic Design Seismic design of structures is a key element of societal safety against earthquake disaster. However, there are various type of structures to be considered. For example, not only the safety of buildings, but also the safety of lifelines such as electric power supply networks, pipelines for water supply, railways, road networks are essential for emergency response. However, the characteristics of damage to these various structures are not uniform. This seminar focuses on the method to estimate the damage to various types of structures. Students are expected to solve one the problems related geo-disaster prevention and mitigation using computer simulations, field measurement/monitoring and in-situ/laboratory experiments. Students are also expected write academic papers and make a presentation at the international/domestic conferences. Lecture Geo-disaster Research works Ryota Hashimoto, Mamoru Kikumoto, Tomofumi Koyama and Mamoru Mimura (2017) Method of deformation analysis for composite structures of soils and masonry stones. Computers and Geotechnics, 82(2), 67-84. Tomofumi Koyama, Yusuke Yasuki and Hiroyuki Shimizu (2016) CFD-DEM simulations for dynamic injection of cement-based grout-grout injection mechanism and suitable injection conditions. Nordic Grouting Symposium, Oslo, Norway, 26-27, September, pp.87-98. Tomofumi Koyama, Masakazu Chijimatsu, Hiroyuki Shimizu, Shigeo Nakama, TomooFuijita, Akira Kobayashi and Yuzo Ohnishi (2013). Lecture Disaster Reduction and Resilient Society This Lecture focuses on a broad field for disaster reduction and resilient society against a mega disaster, ranging from the mechanism on a natural disaster, analysis of people's evacuation behavior and implementation research. For example, the following topics will be covered, (1) a tsunami source modeling considering an earthquake rupture process with heterogeneous slip, (2) numerical analysis of tsunami propagation and inundation, (3) numerical analysis of structural response to a tsunami, (4) development of evacuation simulation model focusing on evacuation start, (5) evacuation behavior observation by using UAV. Research works Yoshihiro Okumura, H.R.
