

International Symposium between Universities of Neighboring Asian Countries and Graduate School of Science and Engineering of Kansai University

-Cooperation between Neighboring Asian Countries in Science and Engineering-

Purpose of the Symposium:

Kansai University has intended to stimulate the research and educational activities not only at graduate course but also at undergraduate course through the collaborations between Universities and Industries of various countries based on the agreements for exchange program. On 2006 and 2007, Graduate School of Engineering of Kansai University has been agreed to sign the exchange program between Chulalongkorn University, Thailand and Universiti Sains Malaysia following the sign for the agreement with Thammasat University, Thailand. Graduate School of Engineering of Kansai University has been agreed to sign the exchange program with Cheng Shiu University, Taiwan in March, 2009.

Kansai University has also been collaborated with several Universities and Industries of ASEAN countries in the fields of Biodegradable Polysaccharides, Biotechnology and Metal Injected Molding (MIM), Information Technology and Civil Engineering for more than five years. We are now sincerely thinking of Ergonomics as a new target to investigate.

Now, Kansai University, therefore, would like to organize the 6th International symposium to promote those activities in the field of Materials and Chemistry, Life Science, Information Technology, Civil Engineering and Ecological Interface Design. Kansai University is also expecting to find moderate type of collaboration between individual organizations through the Symposium which would greatly promote the scientific activities of Kansai University not only on the research but also on the educational level.
