Blended Mobility ("BM") refers to an educational concept that combines physical academic mobility, virtual mobility and blended learning.

While utilizing the experience gained from the COIL (Collaborative Online International Learning) method that Kansai University introduced in FY2014 and which was adopted as an inter-university exchange project in FY2018, we will also promote the development of Society 5.0 human resources through effectively combining online education and study abroad.

COIL is a method of international and interactive education that applies the evolution of online educational methods to international inter-university exchange. Using ICT tools, COIL enables virtual collaboration between students at geographically distant institutions through project-based learning in various fields. In addition, the following outcomes and benefits can be expected from the introduction of COIL, regardless of faculty or field of study.
