概要

This faculty development presentation will look at practical examples of designing tasks from the learning strategies within course textbooks. The workshop will explore what a task is from a task-based language teaching (TBLT) perspective and how to make tasks within a four strands framework. The task-based cycle will also be explored with an example of a current textbook in use. Ideas and strategies on how to manage course textbooks effectively will be discussed collaboratively and shared. New and aspiring teachers are also welcome to attend.
