Media Ecology and Fake News in India

Political discourse in India in recent years has displayed an unprecedented level of violence: from rhetorical to personal. It is in this ambience that the phenomenon of Fake News has acquired salience.

There has been phenomenon like Fake News in the past and were used to certain definite political ends. They however existed in the margins of media ecology. The recent Fake News phenomenon, however, as we shall see, by bringing this to the centre, put unprecedented strain on both Media and Politics.
